Better living through design

BY KELLY GRAY

Parkhill Homes has been making a custom difference to lifestyles for over 30 years. One of Winnipeg's leading homebuilders, Parkhill has based its success on its custom approach to each customer.

"We take the time to listen and discover a client's needs and then work to deliver their vision," says Lori Thorsteinson, Broker/Owner, Loren Realty and Sales Manager with Parkhill Homes. "We don't do 100 homes a year. In fact, we give our complete attention to each individual property and client. We are all about the details and it shows in our projects," she adds, noting that Parkhill's mission is to facilitate clients' ideas from concept to completion.

A great example of Parkhill's thinking can be found at 11 Prairie Grass Lane in Oak Bluff West. This property offers an open airy interior that features great room to kitchen connectivity.

"This property reflects current relaxed lifestyles," notes Lori, pointing to the calm colour palette and flexibility of the design. Detail forward aspects include tray ceilings in the great room to provide space definition, a double-sided fireplace, and waterfall edges on the kitchen counters.

"Stainless steel appliances are still in big demand, as are kitchens with island work areas and bathrooms with separate soaker tubs and glassed in shower units. At 11 Prairie Grass Lane, we have achieved the open feel by offering design attributes such as open shelving in the kitchen," says Lori.

"We know that people spend a lot of time indoors during our colder months. We build homes that help people take their lifestyles inside. Our designs pay special attention to kitchens, great rooms and master suites. We like to think that life is just better in a Parkhill Home," she states, pointing out that they have grown the business over the past 30 years through word of mouth and repeat trade.

"We will attempt just about anything. We view each project as an opportunity to push the envelope. Exciting designs that contribute to lifestyle is what Parkhill Homes thrives on. Our display at 11 Prairie Grass Lane is indicative of this thinking," she explains, inviting people to investigate the opportunities of better living through great design.
